

SCOTT'S REPORT MAY BRING MEN UNDER PERSHING OUT OF MEXICO

With Mystery Surrounding Villa Still Unsolved, Official Washington Now Pins Faith On Word of Famous Old Indian Fighter

COMMANDERS CONFERRING ON SITUATION ON BORDER

Officers of Funston's Staff Are Confident of Futility of Longer Pursuing Wily Bandit Leader, Who May Have Been Killed

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, April 22.—With the question of Villa's death still unsettled, official Washington today is anxiously awaiting the report of conditions along the border in Mexico, which Maj. Gen. Hugh L.
Scott, chief of staff, will make on his return from Texas, where he is now conferring with General Funston. Up on that report, indeed, depends the action of this country; whether we are to remain in Mexico despite the growing feeling of hostility toward us, or to withdraw the troops, leaving Carranza to settle with the Villa question in the future.

Would Abandon Pursuit
From General Funston's headquarters come dispatches declaring that the officers there are convinced of the futility of continuing our search for Villa in the hills and valleys of arid Mexico and under the conditions that exist last night General Funston and General Scott, with officers of the former's staff, held a lengthy conference, discussing the situation thoroughly.

Expedition Marking Time
In the meantime the expedition under General Pershing is halted south of Parral, awaiting orders from headquarters.

In Mexico the feeling appears to be growing that it might be as well to wait in time and circumstances, and to await developments before taking fresh steps. From Juarez last night, came unofficial dispatches declaring that General Carranza, and his advisers, are of the opinion that it would be as well to grant the Americans the use of the railroad in case orders are issued to General Pershing to withdraw from the positions he holds and return across the border.

Villa Mystery Unsolved
The mystery of Villa remains unsolved. Investigations conducted under the orders of General Pershing have failed to show that the body disinter-red at San Francisco Boria was that of the famous bandit chief, and similar independent investigations have been equally barren. No one knows apparently where Villa is, or whether he is alive or dead.

Movements along the Mexican border from the base at Columbus, New Mexico, continue, in readiness to send troops to reinforce General Pershing, in charge of the punitive expedition should Washington decide to add to his command.

SENATOR CUMMINS LEADS NEBRASKA PREFERENTIAL

President Wilson Appears Favorite In Montana Primaries

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) OMAHA, April 22.—Senator Cummings is slightly in the lead in the presidential preference election, according to returns late last night from forty-seven out of ninety-three counties.
Henry Ford, the maker of automobiles, is, however, making a surprisingly good race.

WILSON LEADS IN MONTANA

HELENA, Montana, April 22.—Scattering returns from over the state on the presidential preference elections, received here last night, show Senator Cummings, the Republican candidate, far behind Wilson, the Democratic candidate, in the voting. Only eight counties have been tabulated as yet.

PRESS OF JAPAN APPLAUDS PRESIDENT WILSON'S NOTE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) TOKIO, April 22.—Newspaper opinion of the crisis between Germany and the United States raised by the late note to Berlin on the subject of Germany's submarine warfare, is most distinctly favorable to the position taken by President Wilson, and sympathetic to the United States, and the difficulties that country has yet to face.

TEUTON FIELD MARSHAL LEADING TURKISH ARMY DIES AT HEADQUARTERS

Berlin Announces That Baron von der Goltz Was Victim of Typhus Fever

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) AMSTERDAM, April 22.—Dispas-ches to this city last night announced the death of Field Marshal Baron von der Goltz, aged seventy-two years, commander-in-chief of the first Turkish army, which has been operating against the Russians.
Field Marshal von der Goltz is said officially to have died of the "spotted fever," at his own headquarters.
Baron von der Goltz, who is regarded by many as having been the greatest of all the German strategists, was the officer who reorganized the Turkish armies just before the outbreak of the war between Turkey and the Balkan States.

Since the entry of Turkey into the present war, the field marshal had been in command of the first Turkish army.
VEPHEW EXPOSES WAR PLOT
(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, April 21.—Declaring that Baron von der Goltz, German spy and a "war plotter," who claims to be a nephew of Baron von der Goltz, German field-marshal, had practically owned a field for operations in the United States without limit. Attorney General Gregory announced today that additional indictments will be asked by his department against the German sympathizers in the United States whose complicity in the plots has been established.
The indictments, which are to be asked will be based on the revelations of von der Goltz, made to United States officials.

THIEVES AND BANK BOOTS ARE TAKEN

Securities Stolen On New York Ferry Boat Are Found In Baltimore

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) BALTIMORE, April 22.—Edward J.
Quigley was arrested here last night charged with having stolen $200,000 worth of currency and securities belonging to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, on a ferryboat between New York and Jersey City last February. The securities were found in Quigley's rooms.
George E. Windfall was arrested as a confederate.
Quigley told the secret service men and other officers making the arrest that he took the securities, containing the money and securities from a seat in a New York Philadelphia train, where it had been left by a "man and woman," who left the train at Philadelphia.

316 SUBMARINE READY TO FIGHT FOR UNCLE SAM

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BOSTON, April 21.—The submarine L-3, the largest submarine yet constructed for the United States, was delivered to the government by the builders today and put into commission. Seven others of this class will be in the service by July.

SCORE KILLED AS FRENCH MUNITION PLANT EXPLODES

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) BORDEAUX, April 21.—Twenty persons were killed today and many other injured in an explosion in a hand gun factory here. The factory was badly wrecked.

ARMY DEVELOPMENT BILL HANGS FIRE IN CAPITAL

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, April 21.—No developments occurred today in the army reorganization legislation. Conferences are being awaited.

VERA CRUZ MOURNS AMERICAN LANDING

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) VERA CRUZ, April 22.—The second anniversary of the landing of the American marines and sailors was observed here yesterday as a day of mourning.

WILSON SEES GRANDAUGHTER

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) PHILADELPHIA, April 21.—Visiting this city today, President Wilson had his first view of his new granddaughter, Eleanor Sayre, child of Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre.

BOWEL COMPLAINT IN CHILDREN

During the summer months children are subject to disorders of the bowels and should receive the most careful attention. As soon as any unusual looseness of the bowels is noticed, Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy should be given. For sale by all dealers, Henson Smith & Co., agents for Hawaii.

BURNEY MEASURE SEEMS IN DANGER

President Is Expected To Insist Upon Modifications As To Asiatic Immigration

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) WASHINGTON, April 21.—A possibility that the immigration bill may be opposed by the President because of the Asiatic exclusion features is developing in the capital now.
Viscount Chinda, the Japanese ambassador, conferred today with President Wilson over the provision in the pending immigration bill which proposes to enact into law the so-called "gentlemen's agreement" by which Japan now restricts her laborers from coming to the United States. A memorandum embodying the objections of Japan to this feature of the bill was filed by Ambassador Chinda.

It is understood that other proposed features of the bill dealing with Asiatic exclusion have been found objectionable by Japan. The bill has passed the house and is favorably reported to the senate, carrying the Asiatic exclusion provisions.

The attitude of the administration is understood to be a disinclination to irritate Japan for obvious reasons, and the hope that the undercurrent of opposition which has been existing since the "California anti-alien law" ownership law was passed will not be added to by congressional action.

It was said today that the administration fears no difficulty in arranging the terms of the bill to avoid wounding Japanese feelings. Under the terms of the bill Japanese are with Hindus in the excluded class. The President will soon confer with house and senate leaders on the bill.

The revival of the Japanese objections has attracted much interest but it is suggested that Japan's representations could hardly be delayed further, even if Tokio had desired them to be, because the bill has been reported to the senate for passage.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN WAR ZONES

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.) LONDON, April 22.—The vital nature of the attacks around Verdun again were made apparent yesterday, according to the official statements of both sides, by the fierce-ness of the assaults and counter-assaults delivered by both French and German. And on all the fronts the artillery bombardment grew hotter until not even during the fiercest heat of the battle, now nearing its tenth week, was the exchange of the heavy guns any more tremendous.
The Mortar Corps and the eastern bank of the Meuse again suffered severely. The Germans concentrating the fire of their heaviest cannon upon the French lines there, in addition making use of lacrymogen shells. This bombardment covered the whole of the French front between the east bank of the river and the battered positions around Fort de Vaux.

No Infantry Attacks
There were no infantry attacks in any of these sectors, both sides apparently resting after the fierce assaults of the day before. Indeed, most of the German shelling was directed against the positions captured by the French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trenches and capturing 154 of the un-wounded enemy. The French also recouped attacks made by the Crown Prince, and south of Haumont the French report having gained some ground, after throwing back the German assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims of gains made by Paris, declaring that west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the Ger-
man assaulting columns.

The Berlin dispatches deny the claims
of gains made by Paris, declaring that
west of the Meuse the French attacks
against the positions captured by the
French, north and west of Mort
Homme. Here the Verdun defenders
were successful in taking several trench-
es and capturing 154 of the un-
wounded enemy. The French also re-
couped attacks made by the Crown
Prince, and south of Haumont the
French report having gained some
ground, after throwing back the German assaulting columns.